A Classification and Subject Index for Cataloguing and Arranging the Books and Pamphlets of Library 1976 excerpt from a contents subject index to general and periodical literature owing to the vast increase in the literary output of recent years considerable anxiety has been felt by librarians and others as to the possibility of keeping pace with such conditions both in the additions to their stock of books and in the provision of adequate catalogues and other guides for the use of their readers in the course of the discussion and controversy arising on these matters considerable attention has been directed to the question of subject indexes and many valuable suggestions have been made although as yet little has been effected with general literature beyond giving the author and subject entries of the books the subject index may be divided into two classes the one referring to the main subject of a book or work which is generally set forth upon its title page the other to the contents of a work which are not apparent from its title and are rarely noted in an ordinary catalogue taken singly or individually it will be found that almost every work published in these days exclusive perhaps of prose fiction gives not only a clear announcement of its main subject on the title page but also a description of its contents often carefully arranged under subject headings either in a list of contents or an index about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Indexing for Editors 1972

A Contents-Subject Index to General and Periodical Literature 2017-10-31 a new york times editors choice book named a most anticipated book of 2022 by literary hub and goodreads a playful history of the humble index and its outsized effect on our reading lives most of us give little thought to the back of the book it is just where you go to look things up but as dennis duncan reveals in this delightful and witty history hiding in plain sight is an unlikely realm of ambition and obsession sparring and politicking pleasure and play in the pages of the index we might find butchers to be avoided or cows that sh te fire or even catch calvin in his chamber with a nonne here for the first time is the secret world of the index an unsung but extraordinary everyday tool with an illustrious but little known past charting its curious path from the monasteries and universities of thirteenth century europe to silicon valley in the twenty first duncan uncovers how it has saved heretics from the stake kept politicians from high office and made us all into the readers we are today we follow it through german print shops and enlightenment coffee houses novelists living rooms and university laboratories encountering emperors and popes philosophers and prime ministers poets librarians and of course indexers along the way revealing its vast role in our evolving literary and intellectual culture duncan shows that for all our anxieties about the age of search we are all index rakers at heart and we have been for eight hundred years

August 1885 was issued the present volume continues the work from September 1885 to January 1891 and contains an index of the books published during the last ten years which have been added to the library during the years 1886 1887 1888 and 1889 together with the greater part of those received in 1885 and 1890 works in the Slavonic Hungarian Celtic and Oriental languages are not included in either volume the primary object of the index is to assist readers in their researches in the library of the British Museum it has not therefore been considered necessary to reproduce such portions of the general catalogue of printed books as are of the nature of a class catalogue thus the heading Bible will not be found in the present index although a considerable proportion of the biblical literature of the last five years has been included under such headings as Christianity Church History Jews etc for the same reason no personal names have been taken as subject headings and the heading Biography has been used only for collected biographies although such individual biographies as serve to illustrate history art or science have been frequently included and will be found through out the work under various subject headings novels poems plays and miscellaneous essays are also omitted and only critical or historical works and selections will be found under such headings as drama fiction hymns and poetry it should also be noted that when several editions of a book have been published during the period included in the present series reference has been made only to the latest edition about the publisher forgotten
